Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement filed 02/08/2005 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each cited foreign patent document; each non-patent literature publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chen. Chen discloses a footrest apparatus including:

- a frame 5 having a pair of left and right supporting members forwardly projecting from the front portion of a chair (fig. 4)
- a footrest 40, supported between the supporting members 5, having a lower limb massaging portion 41/42 on one surface and a lower limb resting portion on another surface 45

- a position switching mechanism including pivotal connections between the supporting members 5 and the chair, and an auxiliary guide rod 60 engaging the guide slot 43 of the footrest 40; such that the footrest is rotated between a massaging position where the lower limb massaging portion 41/42 is oriented frontward (fig. 4), and a resting position where the lower limb resting surface 45 is oriented forward (fig. 6).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2-7 and 9-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Double Patenting

6. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir.

1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

7. Claims 1 and 8 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/170,470 in view of Yamanaka et al. Claim 1 is provisionally rejected as being unpatentable over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/170,470. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because claim 1 is generic to all features recited in claim 1 of the copending application – a rest for a lower limb that is supported in a forward area of a chair, having a surface with a massaging portion and another surface with a resting portion, where the rest can be switched between use positions with either the massaging portion facing forward or the resting portion facing forward. Claim 1 of the copending application claim features described previously, with the exception of swinging capability of the rest and a retaining device that maintains the vertical position of the rest, with a corresponding operating member for actuating the retaining device. Yamanaka et al shows such a retaining device 11 for maintaining the vertical position of the swinging rest 10 of their chair, with a corresponding operating member 12/13 for actuating the device. In view of the teachings of Yamanaka et al, it would be obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify claim 1 of the copending application with swinging capability for adjusting the vertical position of the rest and a retaining device for maintaining the rest in various vertical positions in order to provide improved adjustability and comfort to the user.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
